ways from O'Neill clear to Valentine and that area, and that they still have got to come right on through O'Neill and go clear on to Norfolk for the services. I'm hoping that we could get some kind of a satellite service there in O'Neill that be able to work and still be under the O'Neill office, if you wanted to, you know, narrow it down like that.

SENATOR JENSEN: That's certainly in the realm of possibilities. There's also...we're developing more telehealth and telemedicine, where you can do...it's particularly psychiatric, or using psychologists to do treatment over the wire system, which is really an exciting venture. And it seems to be working very well.

SENATOR JONES: Okay. Well, thank you. And the O'Neill has done such a great job there, and I hate to see it just completely close. But if we just have a satellite there or something, I think it would really help serve the area, because it's a long ways from there to Valentine, and they're trying to serve that too. Thank you.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Jones. Senator Synowiecki.

SENATOR SYNOWIECKI: Thank you, Senator Cudaback. Senator Jensen, I too want to applaud you for your endeavor in this kind of a blueprint, I guess you can call it, for future legislation. Senator Jensen, you probably mentioned this, but I'd like to...if you can confirm it. Not only is community-based mental health treatment much, much cheaper to begin with, but also...excuse me, clients or patients that are assigned to our regional centers, if they're in an inpatient setting in a state regional center, we receive absolutely nothing in terms of federal reimbursement. Is that true?

SENATOR JENSEN: That is...

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Jensen.

SENATOR JENSEN: ...that is correct. Or very little. We don't reach that 60 percent match like we would if we had that
